

Tips to avoid sending personal data to the wrong person

- Disable the autocomplete function in email services.
- Check record management systems have the most up to date information.
- Ensure mechanisms are in place to double check addresses before sending any personal data.
- Ensure staff are trained and understand the implications of sending personal data to the wrong person.